Residents win “significant improvements” in Millennium Field Campaign

North Norfolk District Council has granted planning permission to develop Knapton's Millennium Field, but a campaign by local residents forced developer Victory Housing to make “significant improvements” to the plans.

In a controversial decision, planners approved the scheme despite refusing permission for a similar development in nearby Southrepps - a village specifically earmarked for new housing estates.

The Knapton residents' campaign forced a reduction in the number of houses from 16 to 14, and design changes to reduce the visual impact of the development and to reflect the traditional brick and flint heritage of the area.

An archeological survey was also undertaken, which reportedly uncovered some interesting artefacts. We hope to have more information for the next edition of The Knapton News.

Knapton Fete: Volunteers Wanted!

Knapton Fete organisers are looking for helpers to man stalls, and for bric a brac items to sell. The fete takes place each September and raises money for the village. It is always a highlight on the village calendar. If you are interested in helping, or donating raffle prizes or bric a brac items, please contact Alan Young on 01263 721544 or Alison Glaze.

Knapton's Millennium Field Update

Knapton residents spoke at the North Norfolk District Council's Planning Committee in May, to voice their objections to the Victory housing Planning application for development of the Millennium Field.

Angus Roberts spoke about the villagers concerns with the extra traffic which would result from the development; Mark Herbert-Oakey spoke about the impact the development would have on parking for School Close; Michelle de Vries told Councillors that many villagers were unhappy with the design of the buildings and highlighted ambulance and fire engine accessibility concerns; and Parish Council Leader Alan Young, explained the many issues that had been raised in his village hall meetings with residents.

A representative of developer Victory Housing Trust spoke in favour of the scheme, and then the committee voted. The scheme was passed by 8 votes to 5, and residents have no right of appeal.

However, during the debate a number of changes to the plans were demanded by councillors in response to objections raised by residents.

Furthermore, a fresh consultation will now be launched on the design of the buildings.

Concessions won included:

1. The red brick wall surrounding the property proposed by Victory Housing Trust be replaced with a brick and flint wall on the Hall Lane side
2. The hedge surrounding the site will be kept rather than being removed as proposed by Victory.
3. The height of two key buildings will be substantially reduced so that impact on the village is lessened.
4. Brick and flint panels will be added to the buildings opposite Hall Lane
5. The trees planted in memory of loved ones will be kept
6. A further design consultation will be held before full consent is given.

The Parish Council will continue to work on villagers behalf and will be meeting with both Victory Housing Trust and the Architects to try to encourage further design changes and are also consulting with Highways and The Norfolk Fire Department regarding traffic, parking and safety issues.

Councillors also ordered that an archeological surgery be undertaken. This has now occurred and the results have been sent to NNDC for review....

Archeological Survey begins on the site

...Residents spoke to the surveyors while they were on site, and apparently some interesting artefacts have been uncovered!

Parish Council leader Alan Young said,

"I'd like to thank all the residents of Knapton for their hard work during the Millennium Field campaign.

While the result isn't the start-over we had hoped for, we have won some important concessions, which will mean significant improvements in the development.

We didn't have it all our own way, but we now have a much better plan in place, with the possibility of further changes in the new consultation. As ever, we have reached a compromise, and I hope it is one that residents feel they can live with

What is a Sea Fret ?

As residents will know Knapton has recently been shrouded in a rare and beautiful mist which locals call a Sea Fret!

Collins dictionary defines a sea fret simply as a wet mist or haze coming in from the sea.

It is usually found in North East England (where it is called a haar) , but can occasionally affect areas of East Anglia.

The fret occurs when a pocket of warm air passes over the colder sea, and the moisture in the air starts to condense forming a fog. A breath of wind can blow it inland and a beautiful mist then develops.

Morning sunshine will usually burn a fret away, but occasionally it can last all day causing a ghostly pea-souper like the one captured here!

OUR VILLAGE HALL

Things are changing at our village hall. For years we have made do with what we had, and our income was barely sufficient to make ends meet. The Parish Council were lukewarm in their support for a hall at all and it was difficult to attract hirers

But this year I'm delighted to say, following successful events last year, saw the beginnings of real improvements.

We started by sealing the Northern wall, outside and in, and repainting it. We then enlisted the wonderful help of Community Service, now known as Community Payback, to do a complete internal paint job. For six days a team of six worked like beavers to clean down, prepare and then paint all the internal walls and woodwork and have produced a result which has transformed it. Not least it has also given us an opportunity to remove ageing curtains and clear the accumulated pictures and other material from the walls.

In June the Community Payback team will be returning in order to paint outside, the wc's and generally touch up bits that require further attention. The kitchen, which already benefits from new units, will be finished off. And the back yard has been cleared, thanks to a skip which we hired.

We have also disposed of all the plastic chairs that were forever getting in the way with their splayed legs. They are replaced with three sets of much more comfortable, solid, chairs thanks to the generosity of their earlier owners. And we have decided that it will no longer be necessary for hall users to stack everything back onto the stage after every session. Chairs may be left at the perimeters of the hall and at least three or four tables will stay 'up'

Of course all of this could not have been achieved without the enormous help of our committee who have scraped, cut, sealed, stuck, painted, humped, carried, fed, shopped with wonderful determination and humour. My thanks, on behalf of the village, go to all of them.

So, remember. This is your hall. Come and look round it. Use it or lose it! It can be hired for surprisingly little! Mary Renwick-Forster is our diary supremo. Call her and the hall can be yours. Just ring me on 01263 720356 and I can open it up for you so that you can see what it offers.

Editorial

Summer is upon us and isn't Knapton looking beautiful! Liz and I constantly walk through Knapton marvelling at our lovely village and the wildlife we have here.

This summer there are some lovely events for villagers to enjoy including the well established Knapton Village Fete and the less established but no less wonderful Musical Garden Party at Knapton Hall. which debuted, and was a highlight of the village calendar last year. Other events to look forward to include "A Taste Of Summer Concert" at Knapton Church on Friday 22nd June and the Knapton Women's Own Strawberry Tea on July 3rd at The Village Hall.

We can't possibly let this edition go by without mentioning the Millennium Field. The vote by North Norfolk District councillors in May to approve the development of 14 homes may have a been a disappointment to many of us but we should be proud of the Campaign we ran. Letters received by the NNDC Councillors were read and listened to and without a doubt had an influence on the Planning Committee. The development's impact on the Village would have been far greater had villagers not submitted comments (Over 120 against and only 2 in favour) and contacted Councillors directly. This was always a "done deal" between Victory Housing Trust and NNDC with the land set aside for social housing since the 1950's. You can draw your own conclusions as to why Knapton was approved and Southrepps rejected, but major concessions were won which will improve the design enormously and will save the hedgerow and trees for future generations and wildlife to enjoy. We hope that Victory Housing Trust will stick to the Planning recommendations and build a development which will bring young people into the village and make a positive contribution to Knapton. Michelle and Liz (Editors)

Meadow arrived at Knapton Old Hall one day and lived feral in the garden for several months. Eventually she plucked up enough courage to sit on a lap and has never looked back! Michelle and David who own the Hall traced her owners, who lived in Mundeseley. They came to collect her, but Meadow decided there were too many mice to be had near the Hall, and she returned. Her owners then suggested she stay and she is now a much loved and very spoilt house cat, and Knapton Old Hall is Mouse Free - the puuuuurfect arrangement!
